The references fail to teach, disclose, or suggest, either alone or in combination, the lower pin and the intermediate resilient spring of the pins being separately formed and the upper pin including a bottom collar and the lower pin including a bottom collar, the pin assembly being sandwiched between the IC chip having bottom tin balls with a spherical surface and a circuit board of an IC testing device and each of the upper pins comprising a concave top conformed to the spherical surfaces of the bottom tin balls and in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claim.

Applicant's arguments (Pages 6-7) regarding the combination of the Watanabe et al. and Beaman et al. references have been fully considered and are deemed persuasive.
